

MAR 2010

Week 1

Newsletter

The contents of your box this week will be made up of the following:

Name	Method	Source
Potatoes	No Spray	Tenterden
Tomatoes	No Spray	Sandwich
Carrots	No Spray	Wye
Leeks	No Spray	Ash
Onions		Canterbury
Apples		Maidstone

Sorry, quick letter this week as I am on leave supposedly decorating... We finally have got enough tomatoes to get them in the box. They come from a small grower near Sandwich, and we literally grabbed these of the back of the lorry going to the market. They are grown under glass of course, which means they do not need tonnes of spray.

The weather this week also means that, as one of the farmers said to me, you can almost hear the Rhubarb growing. If the warmer weather stays for a week or so we should be good to go in a couple of weeks.

Bad news on the purple sprouting though.... the covers came off and pigeons descended and have done a lot of damage. It always amazes me how much damage they can do to a crop in a short space of time.

Just enough room for a reminder.

This Saturday 6th March, Sausage Tasting Day at The Old Dairy. We shall have several varieties for you to try, as well as discount of the purchase price.
